NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—The officials of the Luckenback Steamship Company were advised today that their steamer "The Julia Luckenback" went down in Chesapeake Bay in last night's storm. Reports say the captain's wife, and the crew of twenty-two were lost. This report is unconfirmed.

Sinking Result of Collision.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—The revenue cutter Apache has been sent to the assistance of the Steamer Julia Luckenback, according to a Navy Department wireless dispatch early today. The message said the vessel was sinking as the result of a collision with another ship. No details were given. Wireless stations later caught messages that the Julia Luckenback had sunk with all on board.

Amerika Went Ashore
NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—The Hamburg-American liner "Amerika", outbound, went ashore in the upper bay off Tompkinsville. Tugs have gone to the rescue.

The captain sent a wireless to the company offices that the ship was not endangered. It was stuck in the mud, but it was expected it would be floated at noon.

INDRAKULKA BELIEVED TO HAVE ALSO SUNK

Another steamer is reported to have sunk off South Point, at the mouth of the Potomac river. The report comes by wireless from the revenue cutter Apache which is rushing to the spot where the steamer Luckenback is reported as lost. The Apache got her information from wireless messages from other ships. It is believed here the second vessel is the Indrakulka, which it is believed collided with the Luckenback and which was carrying Luckenback survivors.

Fourteen of Crew Rescued

BALTIMORE, Jan. 4.—Fourteen members of the crew of the freight steamer "Julia Luckenback" reported as drowned when the vessel sank off Tangier Island, Chesapeake Bay, by the British steamer Indraluala, are now reported as rescued. First Mate Hunt and six sailors are bringing them here. Captain Gilbert and wife and second Mate Bacon are among the missing. No further details are given, but it is believed the Luckenback collided with the Indraluala in a storm.

The Marine Exchange received messages stating that the Luckenback sank almost immediately following the collision.

The Luckenback sank in five minutes after the collision. Eight men who climbed to the rigging were saved by the Danish liner Fannyland. After the Indraluala, with which she collided, swept by the remainder of the crew was caught below decks, perishing there. The Indraluala, with a great hole inside her headed for the beach and grounded. All the crew of the Indraluala was saved.

Advanced Freight Tariffs Fixed by Transcontinental Roads Are Yet in Abeyance

SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 4.—The advanced freight rates proposed by the transcontinental railroads several months ago have been further suspended by the Interstate Commerce Commission, according to advices received by George M. Cooley, president of the Interior Counties Freight Bureau.

When the railroads announced the higher rates the shippers immediately appealed to the commission, and the rates were suspended until December 31. The new suspension continues until June 30. In the meantime the Supreme Court is expected to render its decision on the long and short haul clause of the interstate commerce laws.

FORECLOSURE IN A NOTABLE CASE

Judge Bordewell Orders Sale of California Development
Company in Big Suit

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 4.—Superior Judge Bordewell has ordered a foreclosure sale of the property of the California Development Company in the suit of the Title, Trust and Insurance Company of Los Angeles against the Development company to foreclose a trust deed. He issued an injunction ordering the Southern Pacific to immediately dismiss all proceedings in the Mexican courts against the Mexican branch of the Development company holding the former Mexican court judgments for the Southern Pacific.

The Development company's property is reported to be worth $7,000,000. Judge Bordewell's decision is not yet complete. His tenure on the bench expires today. It was therefore necessary to outline the decision. The Southern Pacific has announced that it will move for a new trial and move to vacate Judge Bordewell's order. It was granted extra time for this. Bordewell ordered that the existing receivership of the Development company be continued.

NEW TRIAL FOR GAS COMPANY ACTION

Avas' Judgment for $775 for Loss of Building Proved to Be Short Lived

FOLLY SMITH CASE LOST BY PLAINTIFF

Judge Wood Makes Use of Sarcastic Language in Making His Ruling Yesterday

The Southern Counties Gas Co., with W. N. Goodwin of Los Angeles and Williams & Rutan of Santa Ana as attorneys, yesterday won a point in the Los Angeles superior court in that a new trial of an action brought by John Avas of Santa Ana was given. The case grew out of the fact that some months ago fire destroyed some small store buildings adjoining the Richelle Hotel. Mrs. Polly Smith, who kept a store there, sued for $2900 damages. The jury gave her nothing. Then Avas' suit for $775 was tried, and judgment for $775 was given against the gas company. Yesterday a new trial in the latter case was granted.

The gas company was alleged to be responsible for the fire. Hodges, proprietor of a barber shop where the fire started, testified the gas meter was old and defective, and the fire broke out because of it. The gas company employees showed that the meter had been in but three weeks and was in good repair.

The plaintiff, Avas, was represented by Attorneys Newmeyer & Morris of Los Angeles.

The Times this morning had the following:
John Avas won a judgment for damages recently against the Southern Counties Gas Company for the destruction of a building in Orange county in Judge Wood's Extra Session Court and the company won a motion for a new trial which was granted yesterday.

Judge Wood's opinion is rather unusual but picturesque. While the company was adducing evidence as to the origin of the fire that destroyed Avas' building, the court says Avas' attorney, "in an insolent manner, either to embarrass the defendant's counsel in the proper presentation of its defense, or to prejudice its case before the jury, frequently assigned as misconduct on the part of defendant's counsel the asking of material and proper questions and wilfully and repeatedly interposed lengthy, puerile and frivolous objections, utterly devoid of merit, to many of the pertinent and important questions propounded in behalf of defendant. It was apparent that such conduct caused the jury to be alternately amused and indignant and diverted their attention from the answers given by defendant's witnesses."

The court said there was no reluctance on his part in declaring the verdict a miscarriage of justice.

SANTA ANA RIVER BASIS FOR REPORT

Furnishes U. S. Geological Survey With Interesting Story on Recovered Waters

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—How power can be developed upon many surface streams and used to recover the water of these streams after it has sunk into the earth in the lower valley lands is illustrated in a Geological Survey report, by the case of the Santa Ana river in Southern California.

A part of the water of this river is stored in a reservoir in the San Bernardino mountains, thence diverted through a power plant where electric current is generated, then redirected through another power plant, then distributed and used for municipal and irrigation purposes at Redlands and Highlands. Springs, flowing wells, and pumping plants run by electric power from upstream recover the water for use in irrigation about San Bernardino and Riverside, and later a part of it reappears in the river above Riverside Narrows. Here it enters a power ditch, and returns to the stream at Corona, to be further down distributed by canals to the orange and deciduous groves near Anaheim and Santa Ana. Part of the water sinking into the soil by this irrigation is again taken out by flowing wells and pumping plants west of Santa Ana.

In a distance of 100 miles this water is used eight times for either power or irrigation.

FIRST DEATH OF KIND

Wireless Operator Mueller First to Die
At His Post from Electric Shock

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Wireless operators say that the death of an operator in the great German wireless station at Norddeich, near the North Sea, recently reported, probably is the first case on record of a wireless operator being killed at his post.

The Berlin dispatch indicated that the operator, a man named Mueller, must have carelessly come in contact with the wires employed for the creation of electric waves, which are charged with such powerful voltage that death comes instantly to any one touching them.

Horse Interfered? Got him shot by Smith, 407 North Birch. That's all.

FIRE STARTED FROM ELECTRIC IRON DAMAGED CURTIS $1,200

Flames Taken up Cooler Closet From First Floor to Attic—Damage to Furniture by Water

At 11:45 o'clock this morning fire broke out at the residence of E. R. Curtis at the northwest corner of Main and Pine streets. The flames were gaining headway rapidly when the firemen arrived, and by quick work soon had the fire out. The damage was about $1200, covered by insurance.

The fire started from an electric iron. Miss Storey had used the iron and placed it while hot upon a shelf next to the air cooler, which reaches from the basement to the attic. The hot iron burned a hole through to the inside of the cooler, and the suction quickly had the flames in the attic and distributed under the roof.

Mrs. Curtis discovered the fire. Although it had started on the first floor it was hardly noticeable there. The fire department was called, and the occupants of the house were called.

The firemen found the fire rather difficult to handle for the reason that the flames were between the floors and walls and under the roof. A wind from the northwest was blowing, and the fire started at the northeast corner of the house. Had the fire had a few minutes longer start the house could not have been saved. The firemen were compelled to use a large amount of water, and considerable damage was done on both the first and second floors. With the exception of the front rooms, the house will probably have to be re-plastered and most of the roof will have to be replaced. Part of the furniture was moved out of the building. While some of it was wet, none was burned. The house is divided into apartments. The fire started in a screen porch used by the Curtis family and by Mrs. M. Storey. The apartments of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Snow above where the fire started were drenched. Mrs. Snow and her baby had no difficulty in getting out of the house. Miss Strong's apartments on the second floor in the front of the house escaped with little damage.

The firemen are to be commended for the manner in which they handled the fire. Had their arrival been otherwise than prompt the house would probably have been destroyed. A number of people of the city failed to turn off their hydrants when the fire alarm was sounded, and to that extent the pressure was decreased.

Curtis has $2000 insurance on his house and $1000 on his furniture.

DANEFF CAN SEE NO PEACE

Predicts War Will Continue—
Turks Probably Will Now
Appeal to Powers

LONDON, Jan. 4.—On the advice of the German ambassador today's meeting of the Balkan and Turkish peace envoys was postponed until 4 o'clock next Monday. Reschid Pasha of the Turkish envoys requested delay. The agreement for postponement was reached after a conference with the Bulgarian premier, Daneff. Reschid Pasha and the German ambassador. The postponement is generally believed to be the first step toward mediation by the powers. Reschid Pasha sent a lengthy cable to Constantinople.

Bulgarian Premier Daneff and Turkish Envoy Reschid Pasha dined together at the Carleton Hotel. Premier Daneff is reported to have tried to convince Reschid Pasha that further resistance to the Balkan demands would be futile.

Commenting on the reports that the powers would probably mediate, Premier Daneff said:

"We cannot prevent Turkey appealing to the powers if she wishes, but we can continue the war." Daneff declared tonight that practically all hopes of peace have vanished. He said: "The continuation of the war is almost a certainty. My traditional optimism is gone."

DROUTH HAS NO TERRORS FOR COUNTY

Magnificent Irrigating System Sets the Weather Clerk at Naught

Anaheim Gazette: While the amount of rainfall to date this winter has been small, yet twice during the past ten years has precipitation been lighter; but the season's rain in those years was sufficient to insure good crops. Rain is needed, but the optimistic have not yet given up hope that it will come in abundance. Orange county, in common with other sections of California, is passing through a season of protracted drought. During five months of last winter no rain fell up to the first of March, when the weather clerk resumed his job and gave farmers down-pour sufficient to produce excellent crops. The period was the most long continued season of drought ever experienced in the state since records of rainfall have been kept. The present winter seems much the same, for excepting light showers, little rain to speak of has fallen. While rain is predicted for the near future, and, if it arrives in abundance, acreage planted to crops will be large, yet there is time enough, old inhabitants say, for a flood. In past seasons little rain has fallen until February or March, and then the weather clerk resumed operations and plentiful precipitation followed. Rain to date this winter amounts to 1.14 inches. Twice during the past decade has precipitation been less. In the winter of 1903-1904 only .39 of an inch fell to date, which marked the minimum rainfall for a score or more of years. Total rainfall for that season amounted to 4.4. In the season of 1910-1911 precipitation aggregated 1.01, and the total precipitation for the season was 13.07.

While rain is needed, yet there is probably no county in the state which can come through a dry year better than Orange county. Its splendid irrigating facilities and upward of a million dollars invested in pumping plants give the valley adequate water supply. Water has been running in ditches everywhere for many weeks past, and pumping plants are in operation day and night.

Figures for rainfall for ten years past, as reported by data on file in Mr. Dickel's office, are of interest and read as follows:

To date	For Season
inches	inches
1901-1902	1.68
1902-1903	10.95
1903-1904	4.63
1904-1905	3.39
1905-1906	2.71
1906-1907	5.55
1907-1908	6.72
1908-1909	4.72
1909-1910	4.29
1910-1911	7.18
1911-1912	1.01
1912-1913	1.95
1913-1914	1.14

FORMER ORANGE BOY, NOW FAMOUS AUTO DRIVER, TO DRIVE BIG FIAT TOMORROW

Tomorrow will be the biggest motor race day in the history of Orange county. Until the big Fiat cars arrived here this week no car above a 60-horse power had ever raced on the track.

Tomorrow there will be four Fiats on the track. Two of them are 200-horse power giants, one a 90-horse and one a 70-horse.

Locally great interest has been manifested in the fact that Teddy Tetzlaff is to drive in tomorrow's races. Tetzlaff grew up at Orange on a ranch about a mile west and half a mile north of Orange. He went to Los Angeles, became interested in automobiles and developed into one of the most famous drivers alive.

Tomorrow Tetzlaff will drive the big 200-horse machine that was used by him in the Santa Monica race when he took the world's records by the dozen. Tetzlaff is also going to drive the new Fiat, 90-horse, known as the Flat Cyclone, in which he will endeavor to break some records.

Frank Hill will go in the 200-horse Fiat in which he won the San Diego road race on New Year's Day in a race entered by fourteen cars. Felix Magone is going to drive the 70-horse machine in which he took second place in the great Indianapolis 500-mile speedway race.

One feature of the meet here tomorrow will be the fact that it will be the first race held under the Western Automobile Association's auspices.

Jointly with the auto races will be held some fast speed events by local motorcycleists, for which Tetzlaff has offered a cup. Paul J. C. Derkum, a great motorcycle rider, will ride an exhibition performance. Derkum is managing the meet, assisted by Harris of Santa Ana. Local auto dealers will officiate.

Many men big in the automobile world of the coast will be here tomorrow. E. E. Hewlett, the Fiat owner, is to be on hand. Barney Oldfield is to be here in his Bentz car, but as yet it is not known whether or not he will enter a race against Tetzlaff on the local track. Negotiations are still underway for that event.

The race program on the Santa Ana track that begins at 2 o'clock tomorrow, follows:

Motorcycles for Tetzlaff Trophy, 5 miles, local riders, six entrants.

Auto, local cars, for Tetzlaff Trophy.

Record trial by Tetzlaff in his Flat Cyclone, 90 horse-power.

First heat of match race, Tetzlaff and Hill, one mile, standing start.

Motorcycle record trial.

Second heat of match race, 2 miles, rolling start.

Big free for all racing cars, Felix Magone, Teddy Tetzlaff, F. Hill, Frank Verbeek. And there is a possible chance of Barney Oldfield being in this event.

TEACHING AGRICULTURE AT UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA IS NOW IMPORTANT BRANCH

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Jan. 4.—Several hundred new students will enroll in the University of California when the new half-year begins on Monday, January 13, 1913.

Freshmen may begin their university life at Berkeley either in January or in August. This is true also for students coming from other institutions to complete a college course, or to study law, agriculture, medicine, engineering, applied science, or for a higher degree in any field.

Agriculture will have a large number of new students. With the growth of fifteen per cent a year in attendance at Berkeley, the agricultural enrollment is expanding at a rate even more astonishing than that for other departments.

A notable advancement has been achieved in the University's agricultural work since the Regents announced their resolve to make the College of Agriculture of the University of California the best in America. Already seven new full professors, all men of national eminence, have been called to head important departments in agriculture. A reorganization has been brought about by Dr. Thomas F. Hunt, the new Director, which makes the chance to study agriculture in the University of California a remarkable opportunity for young men and women who want to fit themselves to make the most of the possibilities of country life in California, or to pursue careers in the agricultural sciences, or to teach agriculture in colleges or high schools, or to engage in one of the varied businesses or professions founded on modern agricultural science.

A California with two million families within its borders, a California with fourfold its present population, is what Director Hunt foretells for the near future, when the Panama canal pours its flood of new population into the state. To feed those ten million people, to supply the rest of America the tropical products possible for this soil and climate, and to help make home life on California farms successful and happy, agriculture must go on discovering and developing improved methods, must bring new knowledge into general use, and must train men and women for their work in the world. All California is filled by a people equipped to make the most of the vast opportunities of California country life.

To carry on the great task of investigation in agriculture, demonstration and extension work, and teaching at Berkeley, at the University Farm, and throughout the state, the Regents have asked the legislature to include in the 1913-1915 general appropriation bill $814,360 as the item for agriculture. This is for two years' maintenance and support of the agricultural work of the University of California in all its branches, educational, scientific and economic, from the development of better seed to the teaching of farmers in the short courses at Davis, from the prevention of walnut blight to the teaching of the principles of plant and animal breeding, from the publication of agricultural bulletins to the training of grain-growers, veterinarians, landscape gardeners, dairymen, fruit-growers, stockmen, and irrigation and agricultural engineers.

Included in this $814,360 is provision for the educating at the University Farm of young farmers who have passed the age when they can be expected to take the formal training of high school and college courses, but who have realized the need of a practical education in the science and art of agriculture. This general appropriation allotment is intended, therefore, to provide not only for work at Berkeley and throughout the state but also for the University Farm at Davis, which is one of the most interesting educational undertakings in the United States. Planned originally for boys of high school age, in practice the young men who come as students are older when they enter than the average freshman at Berkeley. Before long the University Farm will have as many students as can profitably be taught in that one institution, and then the University hopes to establish other such institutions for practical farm teaching in other parts of the state. The rapid expansion of the University Farm work has made imperative the provision of a new classroom and library building, and addition to the dining hall, and two new dormitories. At present many of the students are unable to get either board or lodging on the farm, but must at great disadvantage go to Davis to eat and to sleep. For these building operations special appropriations of $175,000 have been asked from the legislature.

A new head has just been appointed for the University Farm. This is Professor Hubert E. Van Norman of the Pennsylvania State College, President of the National Dairy Show, and a leading authority in animal industry. Professor Van Norman this month will take up his work at Davis as Vice-Director of the agricultural experiment station and Dean of the University Farm school.

At Riverside the University is developing an equally novel and important work—a graduate school of tropical agriculture. Here students from all over the country, already graduated from agricultural colleges, will participate in investigations for increase of knowledge in the agricultural sciences and for the improvement of agricultural methods. For the purchase of 200 acres for the experimental orchards and fields of this Southern California station the legislature has been asked for a special appropriation of $60,000, and also for $125,000 for a laboratory, dwelling, barns, etc.

One of the most distinguished experts in America in the great work of plant-breeding has been called to head this graduate school of tropical agriculture. This is Dr. Herbert J. Webber, long an investigator for the United States Department of Agriculture, and known as the best American authority on the diseases of citrus trees and on the improvement of methods in growing citrus fruit.

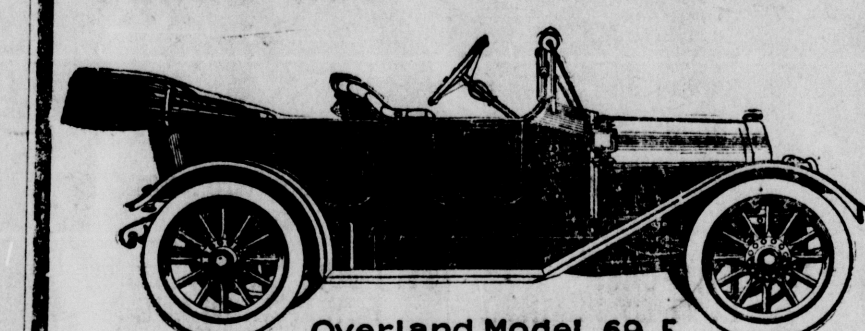

Important improvements have been made in the plan for training the many hundreds of students who come to Berkeley for the full four-year course in the College of Agriculture. Every agricultural student will receive instruction, during his first two years, in agricultural chemistry, in soils, in plant propagation, and in the principles of breeding plants and animals. It is Director Hunt's plan to have these four subjects taught by the four most inspiring teachers he can find, so that the students shall not be turned over to assistants nor to minor men, but instructed by the ablest men that can be found.

After the sophomore year, each student will be expected to decide what particular career he wishes to follow, so that his next two years may equip him especially for what he wishes to make his life's work. He may choose, therefore, either dairying, or animal industry, or soils and fertilizers, or general agriculture, or floriculture and landscape gardening, or plant pathology, or parasitology, or agricultural education, or pomology, or citriculture, or nutrition and agricultural chemistry, or insecticides and insect biology, or viticulture, or irrigation and agricultural engineering.

All California is eventually to be part of the laboratory and classroom equipment of the agricultural students. All these undergraduates will be expected to go for six months or more to the University Farm at Davis, or elsewhere as the University may develop further facilities—to Riverside, for instance, for work with citrus trees; or the Imperial Valley for work with the important sub-tropical crops; or to the forest for practical work in forestry; or to the University's 5400-acre estate at Kearney Park, near Fresno, for horticulture or forage crops; or to Whittier for work with plant diseases, etc. Every student must spend eight weeks in a summer course connected with his specialty, where work will be carried on as far as possible just as in actual practice.

Director Hunt hopes to make the University of California the recognized

INDICATIONS LOOK MURDER

Wednesday Night Gonzales
Told Old Man Another Man
Was Trying to Kill Him

That there was murder done at Westminster New Year's night is the conviction of some of the officers who have worked on the case. The evidence that they have secured is merely indicative, not conclusive. No Mexican has yet been found who will admit that there was a murder, though several have been interviewed who ought to know.

Atencio Mosqueda, the only man yet arrested, declares that he does not remember any shooting, yet there are bullet holes in his clothes and the marks of a bullet where it burned his side.

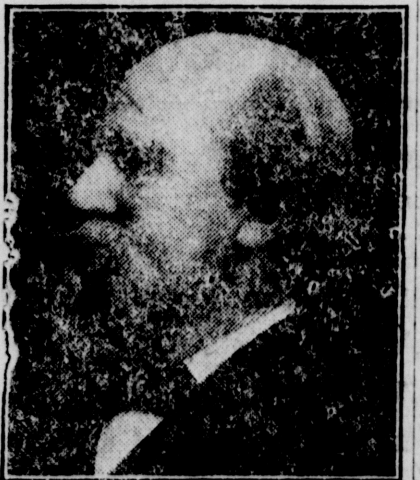

"I was drunk," says he to Under-Sheriff Law. "I don't remember who shot me. I don't remember anything about any fight."

A BALM FOR EVERY ILL

There is no disease, ache or pain that does not readily yield as if by magic to the touch of Dr. Richmond's hand. Wonderful results of the power of the living on hands.

His cures appear like the miracles worked by the Man of Galilee, two thousand years ago. His wonderful cures have astonished the people, Professors, Physicians, Ministers of the Gospel and critics of every sort are amazed in the presence of his astounding cures. He is continually curing those who are blind, giving sight to the blind, curing the deaf, making the lame walk, and curing every disease that affects the human family.

Stories of cures hobbling on their crutches into his office from all parts of the land, bound for Los Angeles, and later, returning to their homes, carrying their cures under their arms and sounding the praises of the great healer, are told daily in Los Angeles, and are spread broadcast throughout the land.

What Wonderful Power Has This Man Over Disease?
Dr. S. A. Richmond, the World's Greatest Healer.

MYSTERIOUS! WONDERFUL!
His touch heals what science and skill fail to reach. Crutches, Canes, Trusses, Braces, Ear Trumpets, Morphine Habit cured. Drugs of every kind and character are laid aside as of no further use. Case after case could be cited, including every known disease—Cancer, Tumors, Rheumatism, Asthma, Consumption, Constipation, Kidney Disease, Nerve Disorder, Dyspepsia, Stomach Trouble, Sexual Weakness, Paralysis, Locomotor Ataxia—each and every one are cured by this wonderful power of Divine Healing. Skepticism melts away like dew in the light of Dr. Richmond's facts.

Whence comes his mighty power no man knows. It is a gift of God. Wonderful it appears to be, according to the testimony of hundreds who have been healed, and right here in Los Angeles. The Great Healer heals all who wish it, without money and without price. When asked "How do you live?" the Healer replies: "By teaching the laws of life and by selling my literature, lessons and books. In other words, I treat free all who purchase my books."

Don't remain sick. Come today and get healed. Cut this out and remember location.

Dr. S. A. Richmond, D.D.
the celebrated Divine Healer, late of Philadelphia, now located at 740 South Figueroa Street, Los Angeles, Cal.

Mariano Gonzales, who disappeared from Westminster yesterday, has not been found. Gonzales knows the whole story. That he was mixed up in the shooting there can be no doubt.

Wednesday night Gonzales made three hurried visits to the home of an old man, clerk in a store, at Westminster. Each time he hastened away before the slow occupant could get to the door. Finally he waited. He pleaded to be allowed to go into the house and stay the rest of the night. He said a man was hunting him to kill him, and he wanted to sleep in the house. The old man declined to become mixed up in the matter, and Gonzales went away. Later another occupant of this house heard shots.

Late Wednesday night shooting was heard near the house where Gonzales and Mosqueda live. J. C. Craig, looking out of his bedroom window, saw a man run along the road. Gonzales was in pursuit. Soon after daylight Craig saw six Mexicans carry an inert body into Pollerino's house. The theory that a man was killed, carried to Pollerino, who is suspected of having furnished the liquor that started the row, and hauled away in a wagon to the willows may yet prove true. The Mexicans, however, maintain an attitude of dense ignorance.

If there is a dead man in the affair, the officers believe that Mosqueda and Gonzales were together in the fight against him.

ALL OVER BUT THE WRITING

Grand Jury Adjourns Until Next Friday When It Will Hear
and Approve Report

The grand jury has practically completed its labors. Yesterday a long session was held in which the reports of the various committees were received, and to Chairman Griffith and Secretary Mitchell was delegated the task of writing the official report of the grand jury to be submitted to Judge West. The grand jury then adjourned until next Friday, at which time the report will be approved and unless some unforeseen matters arise will be submitted to Judge West upon that day.

Yesterday afternoon the grand jury held a conference of nearly an hour with State Senator Anderson relative to proposed additional help for some of the county officers.

DAY.

Day! I lament that none can hymn thy praise
In fitting strains of all thy riches bless,
Though thousands sport them in thy golden rays,
Yet none like thee their Maker's name confess.
Great fellow of my being, wake with me!
Thou dost put on thy dazzling
colors of light
And onward from the east go forth to free
Thy children from the bondage of the night.
I hail thee, pilgrim, on thy lonely way,
Whose looks on all alike benign-
antly shine.
A child of light like thee I cannot stay,
But on the world I bless must soon decline—
New rising still, though setting to mankind,
And ever in the eternal west
thy day spring find.

SMALL HOUSEHOLD WASTE
WORTH PREVENTING

Justly or unjustly, Americans are accounted a very wasteful people. Europeans who from time to time have studied them are almost unanimous in holding to this verdict. Most of the critics have found explanations for it; none have undertaken to excuse it. As a national characteristic, if it may be accounted such, it undoubtedly had its origin in the bountiful natural resources of the country. But the early settlers were economical, saving, provident, indisposed to all forms of extravagance. Self-denial was one of the cardinal virtues of the Puritan. Not, it appears, until about the middle of the last century, when adventure began, when home ties no longer held the family together, when gold mines were opened up and fortunes accumulated beyond any previously known, did the trend toward wastefulness become noticeable. Within the last four years there has been a wholesome reaction from this tendency in the larger aspects of national life. It has expressed itself in the conservation movement. Today it is shielding from exploitation and spoliation forests, mineral lands and water powers, wherever these can be brought within the jurisdiction of the government; it is enforcing economy in public administration, it is encouraging the prevention of waste in industry and commerce. But it has not yet eliminated from the conduct of the average household the forgetfulness, the neglect, the extravagant disregard for the little things, that contribute toward maintaining and toward raising the high cost of living.

Household economy is not given the attention it deserves. Perhaps not in one home out of a hundred is it practiced systematically. There may be a saving at the spigot, as it were, but it is too often discounted by a waste at the bung. Unnecessary heating, unnecessary lighting, leaks, wasteful burners, neglect in turning off water, gas and electricity, loose methods of attending to the furnace, like carelessness in attending to weights and measures, or to the items in accounts, are small matters in themselves, but they may represent the difference between a surplus and a deficit in the household allowance. They often amount to a very respectable figure at the end of a year. Saved and in a lump they would go far toward providing clothing for each member of the family.

It was Fielding who wrote—
A penny saved is a penny got,
and it was Franklin who rhymed—
A penny saved is twopence dear,
A pin a day's a groat a year, and both were right. Conservation, or economy, or by whatever name it may be known, strangely enough, is working downward rather than upward in the United States. The beginning, that is, has been made at the top rather than at the bottom. The individual has demanded it of the body politic, and the body politic is responding. Public welfare must soon more emphatically demand it of the individual. It is well that it has begun somewhere, but it cannot be said to have begun rightly until it takes root in the home.

A FINE NEW YEAR CUSTOM

Over in China and Japan, the so-called barbarians have some customs that seem quite civilized. One of them is the habit of cleaning up debts as an expression of New Year's feeling.

The contrast reminds one of a remark once made by Li Hung Chang, one day when he was attending a

Our Washington Letter

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—A timely warning against the ravages of the "whooping cough" is being circulated broadcast by the U. S. Public Health Service in an article by Dr. W. C. Rucker, the Assistant Surgeon General. With the advent of cold weather, when people crowd into close quarters with fires lighted, windows closed and ventilation shut off, contagious diseases begin to spread more rapidly.

"Whooping cough," says Dr. Rucker, "is one of the most serious of communicable diseases to children in its immediate and remotest effects. The disease is by no means uncommon in underfed children and is often followed by tuberculosis of the lungs. Paralysis and many serious affections of the eye have also resulted from the excessive coughing. It is thus seen that whooping cough, which is estimated to kill over 10,000 American children in 1911, is a disease seriously affecting the public health and demanding earnest attention."

As a means of identifying children affected with whooping cough, Dr. Rucker suggests that they be plainly labeled with a green arm band so that other children may be warned. Parents should also caution their children, he said, against the dangers of exchanging pencils, trading gum, promiscuous kissing and other means by which sputum may be transferred from one person to another.

"Any disease which kills 10,000 per annum is a serious one," Dr. Rucker concluded. "If bubonic plague were to kill that many children in the United States in one year, the whole world would quarantine against our country."

More than 100 varieties of strawberries now grow in Alaska, according to the annual report of Alaska Agricultural Experimental Stations of the Department of Agriculture made public here today.

Because of the climatical conditions in Alaska it was a hard problem at first to get strawberries, to thrive, but by hybridizing cultivated varieties with pollen from the wild native Alaskan strawberry, of the coast region, splendid results were obtained. The most remarkable feature about these hybrid plants is that they were decidedly more vigorous than either parent, yielding more, growing larger, and seeming suited to almost any climate in the territory.

In connection with the growing of apples the experts in Alaska wrote that only trees with crab-apple blood produced fruit. An apple is being made to hybridize the crab apple with the ordinary eating apple in hopes of getting a fruit that will stand the climate and be acceptable to good taste.

The United States is by far Brazil's best customer, according to Consul General Julius G. Lay at Rio de Janeiro in a report in the consular report on the export trade of that country during 1911 made public in the consular reports here. The American purchases amounted to 35.6 per cent of the total exports. Great Britain took 15 per cent of the total export business of Brazil during the same period.

To supply the country with information relative to crops and other commodities that come within the jurisdiction of the Department of Agriculture, 2110 different bulletins were issued during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912, according to the report of the editor. Of various publications there were printed during the year 34,678,557 copies, 10,409,000 of which were farmers' bulletins.

Gives Health Hints

Sir George Birdwood, officer of the Legion of Honor, laureate of the French academy and formerly professor of anatomy and physiology at Bombay, has contributed at the age of eighty his views on how to reach a ripe old age. His maxims are:

Don't think about your health.
Enjoy yourself as much as possible.
Ignore dietary tables.
Eat whenever you feel inclined.
Look on the bright side of things.
Sir George is particularly scornful about the diet on which another contributor to the discussion thrives—namely, two meals of eggs, bread and butter daily.

"Such a life," he says, "would not be worth living. The great question is not how to live long, but how to live well."

Mr. Nealley Replies to Mr. Keech

Editor Register:—I am grateful to Mr. Keech for calling attention to certain points in my argument which are likely to cause a serious misunderstanding of my position as to the question of crime and the treatment of criminals. One necessarily runs the risk of being misinterpreted when one is required to be brief in dealing with so vast a question.

Referring to my article Mr. Keech says: "If he means to say that moral, social, intellectual and sanitary culture of all the citizens may not be neglected by the state, and the infliction of penalties for violation be relied upon to maintain the standard of citizenship and the public freedom of the community, I emphatically agree with him."

That is precisely the sum and substance of what I meant to say. My whole theory of crime and punishment would be merely the amplification of that point of view.

Again he says: "But if he means that penalties should be abolished, individuals be freed from responsibility for their acts, etc., I most emphatically dissent." So do I dissent. I had no thought of saying anything of the kind.

He then asks whether Rosario Sainz and other murderers should be sent to state's prison. Certainly they should. I would be the last to turn them loose on the community.

"Should the community be responsible for the crimes of Macdonald and Peabody, and deterrent penalties be abolished for such offenses?" No, emphatically not.

"Does Mr. Nealley (as some of his quotations seem to indicate) favor the abolition of personal responsibility and the substitution of communal responsibility?" Certainly not. I favor the adoption of such measures and policies as will tend to strengthen both individual and community responsibility. I believe thoroughly in the fundamental right of the state to control the lives of its individual members in such a way as to best promote the welfare of both.

I believe in the principle of punishment and deterrent penalties. We may be able to do away with them when we arrive at the millennium, not before. But I do not believe that the state should stop at that point and consider that its whole duty has been done. And that is the whole significance of the newer views regarding crime which I tried to present.

I mean to say that the state has the further and more FUNDAMENTAL duty of stopping the sources of crime and removing the conditions that breed crime. In other words, going at the problem from the standpoint of prevention, and formulating its measures and policies in the light of the teachings of modern psychology and modern sociology. No one will go further than I in insisting upon the right and duty of the state to protect society, but how can this best be done? That is the only question at issue.

With the permission of the editor I will return to this discussion next week with a more positive statement. This communication is sent in for the purpose of correcting the misunderstanding of my position which Mr. Keech kindly points out, and for which I thank him.

Yours respectfully,
EDWARD M. NEALLEY.

Capital Punishment
As the question of capital punishment is being discussed, let me say a few words on the subject. We are well aware that bare assertions do not prove anything, but that proof must be produced either from self-evident facts or from such authority as is recognized as a standard on the subject. We know of no standard authority in the case except God's word, the Bible, and a very large portion of our citizens accept it as authority, and none can produce a standard that will in any way compare with it.

Blackstone's commentaries are the standard of common law. From Book

I, Chapter II, we quote a few extracts:

"Man, considered as a creature, must necessarily be subject to the laws of his creator, for he is entirely a dependent being."

"As man depends absolutely upon his Maker for everything it is necessary that he should in all points conform to his Maker's will."

"The revealed law is of infinitely more authenticity than that moral system which is framed by ethical writers, and denominated by the natural law; because one is the law of nature, expressly declared to be so by God himself; the other is only what, by the assistance of human reason we imagine to be that law."

God's command is: "Whoso sheddeth man's blood by man shall his blood be shed; for in the image of God made he man." Gen. 9:16.

But some will say that the law quoted is found in the Old Testament, and is not binding now. A law is binding until it is repealed, or the reason for its enactment has ceased to exist. Now it is the duty of those who say that this law is not binding to show when it was repealed, or that the reason for its enactment does not exist. God gave a reason why the murderer should be put to death: "For in the image of God made he man." Genesis 9:6. But instead of it being repealed, we believe the death penalty is plainly reaffirmed in Romans 13:4. "For he is the minister of God to thee for good. But if thou do that which is evil, be afraid; for he beareth not the sword in vain, for he is the minister of God, a revenger to execute wrath upon him that doeth evil." There the "sword" represents the power to put to death, and shows clearly that God still requires this penalty to be inflicted as a punishment for certain crimes.

In Romans, the 13th chapter, the inspired writer tells us the origin of civil government and its object, and the source of its power. The fourth verse shows plainly that the rulers have the right to inflict the death penalty. But we are not to be understood as advocating the death penalty as the punishment for every crime. God in his word has specified certain crimes that should be punished with death, and other crimes are to receive a punishment not so severe. Here the death penalty includes all less severe penalties.

Many of the arguments used against capital punishment are arguments against all penalties and are very comforting to the desperadoes, and have a tendency to increase crime. That which proves too much does not prove anything.

Now in regard to the source of power we read: "And Jesus came and spake unto them saying: All power is given unto me in heaven and earth." Matt. 28:18. He is "King of kings and Lord of lords." Rev. 19:16. Now since all "power" (or authority) is given unto Jesus Christ he is the ultimate source of authority. The people have a right to say by their ballots who shall administer the government.

"Take you wise men and understanding and known among your tribes and I will make them rulers over you." Deut. 1:13. The people elected their officers and God gave them the authority to execute the penalty as his agents or ministers. The people are under obligation to adopt or enact such laws as are agreeable to and founded upon God's law, but they have no right to enact any laws contrary to God's law. It is their duty to acknowledge the Lord Jesus Christ as King of kings and Lord of lords and God's law in so far as it refers to civil government to be the supreme law of the land. Then "the powers that be are ordained of God."

Now as civil government is an ordinance of God, and rulers receive their authority from the King of kings and are His ministers to execute His vengeance and wrath on evil doers, then why should not the rulers wield the sword that God has given them and put the murderer to death as God has commanded them?

But some will say, how can you reconcile Christ's teachings with this law? We answer, Christ taught personal duties and corrected mistaken ideas of law in regard to our treatment of others. But in regard to the law he said: "I come not to destroy the law but to fulfill it." If Christ had in any way taught that the law given by Moses should not be carried out to the letter, then the Jews would soon have brought charges against him before the Sanhedron for such teachings. And as no such charges were ever brought against him by the Jews the evidence is clear, plain and conclusive that he never taught that this law should not be enforced.

In Exodus 21:16 we read: "And he that stealeth a man and selleth him, or if he be found in his hand he shall surely be put to death."

Now did Christ ever say that the man engaged in the white slave trade should not be put to death? Did He ever teach that those human beings that kidnap innocent girls and sell them into that most horrible slavery should not be put to death? Did Christ ever teach that the death penalty should not be inflicted on them? If you think He did, please tell me where he taught it.

Yours respectfully,
JOHN B. ALEXANDER.

CONSIDERS TERRITORY AS AN EXCELLENT PROSPECT

Orange News: Commenting on the movements of the Standard Oil Company in starting drilling in the Olive district, the Olinda Derrick, a newspaper devoted to the interests of the Orange county oil field, takes a very favorable view of prospects for oil in the vicinity of Orange.

After stating that the success of the operations on the Dorsby, Walker-Brand, and Petroleum leases have had a great deal to do with the extension of the prospecting area to the east side of the river in the Olive territory, the paper declares that the formation as found by these companies indicates an almost certain extension of the formation across the river into the Olive territory, where conditions seem to be identical with those in the proven oil territory on the Olinda side of the river.

Reviewing the activity begun in this section, the Derrick says: "The first activity on the east side of the river began a year ago, when the Selby oil interests of Ohio, Illinois and Oklahoma acquired ground in the vicinity of Olive. Mr. Selby made the acquisition personally, following an automobile tour that covered several months and during which he visited all of the oil fields of the state. Besides the lease he took on the east side of the river he chose only one other property, that being in the vicinity of the Amalgamated."

During the spring and summer several other acquisitions of leases were made on the east side of the river. The attention drawn to the new locality brought the geologists of the Standard Oil Co. and the Union Oil Co. onto the ground. It is understood that very thorough examinations made by them during the late summer and fall were followed by excellent reports. At any rate representatives of the two companies were on the ground soon after the geologists and have since been very busy acquiring leases. The terms they have made lately in securing these or in endeavoring to get ground have been very liberal. Also guarantees of 4000 feet depth, if necessary to thoroughly test the formation, have lately been included in leases. To the Olive Milling Co. offer has been made of this depth on land it owns on the point of the hill at Olive with the added guarantee clause of two wells to be commenced immediately, the lease is closed.

Before returning East in February of last year, Mr. Selby expressed himself as confident that it would be but a matter of a short time until the east side of the river came under development for oil. He also expressed himself as considering the territory to extend large promise. He is one of the most successful oil operators and geologists in the country, having a practically unbroken record of success to his credit.

At the time of his acquisition of properties here, Mr. Selby said that he did not intend early development, for the reason that oil conditions on the coast were such that money could be put in the eastern fields at that time much more advantageously than it could be used here. Since then there has been a reduction in the surplus oil on the coast and a general improvement in conditions as affecting oil, its development and marketing.

The Standard and Union Oil companies are both hot after holdings in the Olive vicinity on the east side of the river.

The Standard has obtained an 860-acre lease on the Bishy ranch.

The Union is understood to also have a lease on the same ranch.

Both companies have been after holdings around the point of the hill on the Olive side.

Besides the leases close in to Olive a considerable acreage has been acquired by these companies and other operators on the east, to and beyond El Modena.

Every indication is that there will be large activity in the new territory at an early date. The theory is that the west side oil formation rises again on the east side of the river.

Determined to be in Style
A customer in a butcher's shop stood gazing at some small alligators in an aquarium. Having turned the matter over in her mind, the customer approached the butcher and exclaimed: "I suppose a body might as well be dead as out of style. Gimme a couple of pounds of alligator."

CONGREGATIONALISTS MET

Goodly Number Heard Reports of Year's Work and Enjoyed Annual Church Supper

The annual reunion of the members of the Congregational church and members, took on a somewhat new form this year. Held on last Thursday night, the guests each took baskets of refreshments, turning them over to a Ladies' Aid committee which was in charge of the supper. Hot rolls and coffee were furnished by the ladies and the decoration of the tables was also in charge of the ladies. Poinsettias, roses, nasturtiums and greenery were used in adorning the tables around which gathered a goodly number. Following the feast the annual reports of the various activities of the church were heard, W. B. Tedford presiding during the business meeting. Reports from the following officers indicated an excellent condition of the church and its auxiliaries:

Miss Annie Pease, church clerk; N. A. Beals, treasurer; Mrs. P. L. Toole, for the Ladies' Aid society; Mrs. Mary Rowell, for the Missionary society; Mrs. Raymond Miles, for the Amphion Circle; Miss Helen Crose, for the Christian Endeavor; Mr. Fujita, for the Japanese Mission, and the trustees of the church.

Spent Day Here

Mrs. P. V. Crosby of Joplin, Mo., has been visiting her sister, Mrs. H. M. Robertson, for two weeks, and yesterday her visit was made additionally pleasant by the arrival in Santa Ana from Arlington of Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Miller Robertson, who spent the day at the Dr. Robertson home.

Oswald Robertson is a brother of Dr. Robertson, and is one of the most successful poultry growers in the Riverside-Arlington district. He and his wife and three daughters returned last evening to their Arlington home.

First 1913 Concert

The members of the choir of the First Baptist church are preparing for their first 1913 concert which is announced for Tuesday evening, January 21st.

They will be assisted by prominent local artists and the programme promised is an attractive one.

Ladies' Aid Society

The ladies of the First Presbyterian church belonging to this society met yesterday afternoon at the church in the first meeting of the year, a goodly number being present. The usual business session was followed by a social hour during which a committee headed by Mrs. Shrewsbury served refreshments.

The Woman's Missionary Society of this church will meet in the church next Wednesday.

We regret to announce that, on account of illness in her family, Miss Dudley Page will not be able to continue her association with the Conservatory after this week.

It gives us pleasure, however, to announce the addition of Mr. Earl Fraser to the Conservatory faculty. Mr. Fraser, who has been under my personal tuition several years, is not only a brilliant performer, a conscientious and most talented student, but possesses unusual ability as a teacher. His several years' experience in teaching has proven this.

We are very glad to have a male assistant in the Conservatory and especially one so well equipped to take charge of well advanced piano work.

ATHENA MASQUERADE

High School Girls Held Annual Event Last Night—Alumni and Teachers Present

The girls' Athena Club of the High School held its annual masquerade last night in the lower hall of the High School building. About two hundred members of the club, including several fair alumnae of the school and also feminine members of the faculty, enjoyed the affair. The alumnae later in the evening acted as judges.

No long program had been arranged, most of the numbers being of an impromptu nature. The masqueraders each furnished a "stunt" of some kind. Miss Hester Robinson gave a reading. Dorothy Seecombe rendered a piano solo and Elsie Wingood favored with a reading. One feature was the eukle quartette, made up of Irene Smith, Gertrude Roper, Esther Johnson and Dorothy Dean.

The refreshments were much enjoyed. Each person brought an individual lunch box, and these were exchanged. The most delicious punch was furnished by the club.

Louise Grubb and Ruth Harding as King and Queen of Cannibal Isle were awarded first place for originality and Corinne Burns and Alice Cranston as Japanese girls tied for first place for beauty of costume.

The members of the faculty who were present and the characters they represented are as follows:

Miss Brockett, Chinese girl; Miss Petro, Swedish girl; Miss Gall, Japanese girl; Miss Wyant, Indian maiden; Miss Gowdy, "Middle" girl; Miss Norman, negro "mammy."

Many of the costumes were very original and pretty. A few of the characters represented were: The goddess Athena, Mabel Mansur, Gold Dust Twins, Clara McPhee and Norma Wingood; Eskimo, Flossie Norman; bottle of "Keystone Balm," Grace Peterman; the "Dingbat family," Lillian Walker, Greba Scott and Stella Hupp; "Hansie," from Holland, Estelle Nilsson; "Yama-Yama" girls, Etta and Henrietta King and Dorothy Seecombe; "Lady Macbeth," Fayanna Snader.

Choral Society Rehearsal

The members of the Choral Society are reminded of the rehearsal on Monday at 7:30 p. m. promptly at the Congregational church. It is extremely important that there be a full attendance from now on and all members are urged to keep Monday evenings free for the work. One or two more tenors could be used and applications can be made to Alan A. Revill.

"Y's" to Meet

The Santa Ana "Y's" will begin the year very pleasantly, the January meeting to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Tedford on North Broadway.

The subject for the evening is a most appropriate one to the season, being "A Backward and a Forward Look." The program will embrace other interesting features and a social time will follow. The "Y" meetings have become notable as being most enjoyable in affording social pleasure as well as discussion on topics of the time. All young people are cordially welcomed at these meetings, and are especially invited to be present at this first meeting of the new year.

New Year's Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Tibbetts of 1638 West Fourth street, entertained with a New Year's dinner, their guests being Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Hilliard of Hollywood, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Tibbetts of Pomona, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gilchrist of Sunset Beach, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Hilliard of Vinton, Iowa. The latter couple arrived Saturday to spend the rest of the winter with their daughters, Mrs. Tibbetts and Mrs. Gilchrist, and their son, M. C. Hilliard. The dinner also celebrated the birthday of Mr. Tibbetts.

Met With Mrs. Law

The Merry-Go-Round-Club was entertained on Thursday afternoon by Mrs. George C. Law, 1510 Durant street, the ladies having their fancy work with them and spending the afternoon in social chat over the holiday season and other topics of interest. Music on the piano by Miss Myrtle Law, the daughter of the hostess, was a particularly enjoyed feature of the afternoon. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Law, ending the first 1913 meeting of this neighborhood club. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. George Ford in two weeks from last Thursday.

ANNIVERSARY BELLS

Wedding Chimes of Twenty Years Ago Echoed In Happy Event Last Evening

Twentieth anniversary wedding bells rang out last night for Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Winbiger in their handsome home, 207 East Ninth street, where a large and merry group of close friends and neighbors surprised them at 8 o'clock and helped to happily while away the hours until 12 o'clock, which came all too soon for the guests and the hosts.

A beautifully arranged musical program in the hands of Mrs. Dr. Wehrly and Mrs. Elmer Burns was carried out. Those pleasing with numbers were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Warner in a charming piano duet; Miss Gladys Burns with a beautiful piano solo; Mrs. A. J. Padgham, who played a brilliant piano number; C. A. Gustlin who delighted his hearers with his matchless playing; Mrs. Philip Lord in a delightful vocal solo; Mit Phillips and F. H. Jayne in much enjoyed vocal numbers and Mrs. Winbiger and Mrs. Moorehouse in a charming vocal duet.

Mrs. I. W. Mills, the bride's mother, read a clever original poem appropriate to the occasion. Every number of the pleasing program was applauded and encored.

To the strains of a wedding march played by Harry Warner, the bride and groom, preceded by Mr. E. B. Burns and Mrs. Otis Birch, who were "best man and maid" twenty years ago, marched into the living room, where the Rev. Inwood officiated with a most unique ceremony in riveting the matrimonial chains a little stronger than ever. The wit and cleverness of Mr. Inwood's original services brought forth peals of laughter from the assembled guests who heartily applauded his efforts to cement the 20-year-old marital bonds.

One of the delightful happenings of the evening was the presentation to Mrs. and Mrs. Winbiger of a set of Haviland china, a beautiful token of the love of the friends who were present. Prof. J. W. McCormac made the presentation speech couched in well chosen words.

A drawing contest in which the men endeavored to portray with pen and paper the good looks of the bride and the ladies sought to reproduce the regular features of the handsome groom, was a merriest producing affair. Mrs. Harry Warner's portrait of the groom was deemed worthy of the first prize, while Mrs. Mit Phillips was not so flattering and consequently had to take the consolation trophy. H. C. Dawes proved an appreciative and skillful artist and captured the first prize for Mrs. Winbiger's portrait, while a candy cane was presented to Rev. Mr. Wright for his unsuccessful efforts to win the chief reward.

To complete the delightful evening, refreshments taken in by the self-invited guests were served. The refreshments were of the choicest and the gay talk and laughter of the preceding hours continued during the delicious repast. There were probably sixty-five or more present and seldom has a social event in this city been more thoroughly enjoyed.

Michigan Picnic

On Tuesday next, Jan. 7, the Michiganders of Santa Ana and vicinity will hold an all-day picnic in Birch Park. A basket dinner will be enjoyed at noon, hot coffee being served by those in charge. All Michigan people are cordially invited to be present.

Manager Roberts presents the above named picture subject along with his other new program at the Bell theater and Sunday night and while each and every number on the program can be classed as a feature, this one (Brutality) stands out so strong and makes such an impression upon all who witness it, that it deserves special notice. Any minister, regardless of his teachings, will find in it ample material for his next Sunday's sermon, while the church-goer will see the most thrilling at the same time interesting sermon enacted that has been heard of in months, and the ones who don't care will be impressed as never before. The Sunday School Lesson

As Taught at the Bible Institute of Los Angeles by Rev. J. H. Sammis.

CREATION

Lesson 1. January 5.
Genesis 1:1-3.

I. BEGINNING.

1. "In the beginning." (1) Astounding thought, "the beginning!" There was when the world was not, the heavens and all the host of them. Alone! In His habitation of eternity. "In the beginning was God." Jno. 1:1. Geology, astronomy, physics, biology (life), all prove the statement of this first utterance of inspired revelation beyond a reasonable doubt.

2. Men were ignorant, until recently, of these sciences, and could have written the facts of this account, so harmonious with them, only by revelation. The record stood for millenniums as to detail, only on its own testimony. Modern science is the attestation of the word, "The Lord spake unto Moses." Men unsurpassed as scientists declare that the order of creation is the scientific order, though not in scientific terms. There was (1) created matter; (2) a formless, chaotic condition; (3) cosmic light; (4) a separation of vapors by condensation, and elation, "waters" and atmosphere; (5) emergence of land; (6) vegetation; (7) sun and moon appear (late, "the fourth day"); (8) life—(a) in the sea, (b) flying things, (c) land animals, (d) last of all man. Such is the sketch of Moses, parallel with the scheme of Science. Moreover, "He made the stars also," and science teaches that the same matter composes and, therefore, the same laws prevail in the most distant stars as in our own system; that our sun is a star, and all together one Universe.

II. THEOLOGY. Our chapter was written not to tell how the world was made, but Who made it; not how it goes but whence it came; not to teach science but theology, in order that we might worship the Creator not the creature (Ro. 1:19-25). Gen. 1-3 is a treatise against idolatry; both pagan and civilized "Christian."

2. Every beginning has necessarily a beginning. The first Beginning could have had no beginning. The First Cause must be uncaused. Reason compels us to believe in the eternal, however impossible for her to explain Him as such.

3. The account teaches: (1) God's existence in the Beginning, "In the beginning God." (2) His independence. His apartness from nature, "God created." (3) His trinity (seen clearly only in later light), for the word "God" is plural and the word "created" is singular, as if one should say, "Gods was the Creator." God is plural, yet singular; we find here at work the God-head, the Spirit, and the Word. (4) The account teaches, for this follows, that He is Almighty. All-present, All-wise, and All-beneficent, and also the Inspirer of Scripture, for we have shown that supernatural revelation alone could have discovered the facts; and inspiration alone can account for the manner and method of the record.

III. CREATION. The constitution of nature proves it to be created.

Matter. (1) Itself, it is the stuff seen things are made of. It exists crudely in microscopic particles, every one of which the highest authorities declare to have "all the appearance of manufactured articles." That is, they are not like cobblestones, but like bricks; not like chips, but like dove-tailed pieces. They are made to put together; like the letters of the alphabet, they have no meaning without their fellows. (2) Its combinations. Air, water, acids, gases, salts, are made up of these atoms, so adapted to go together, and are combined in exact weights, measures, numbers, and proportions. A chemist's prescription is not so exact, Isa. 40:12, Job 28:25. (3) Celestial arrangements. The distances, times, velocities, masses of heavenly bodies are exactly proportioned. A costly chronometer is not so accurate. The slightest alteration in the weight of a planet would wreck the system. Myriads of facts thus prove the being and presence of an Almighty creating and upholding Power "Doer of all these things" (Am. 9:12). "The undevout astronomer is mad."

2. Motion. In our experience of effects we produce we know that nothing moves save by will alone. Our bodies, all bodies, rest till we will them to move. From minutest atom to mightiest sun all is incessant and intelligent motion. We justly infer that it, too, is due to will. Never mind that we cannot see Him, we too, are invisible. We know that no matter moves itself. Invisible will moves the dead weight of our bodies, and through it other material objects. Invisible Will moves all things and supports them, as we our bodies, which, but for unseen will would collapse. Hb. 1:3; Col. 1:15-17; Job 9:5-12. Motion had a Creator.

3. Life. Life comes only from life. As cinders bear the proof of former fire, facts show that Earth was once too fiercely heated for life to have existed in it. Life is here. Therefore a Living One must have imparted it. Gen. 1:11, 20, 21, 27; 2:7. Life is a perpetual miracle, quickening dead matter, overcoming gravitation, resisting and utilizing many forces; as these of light and chemistry; it reproduces itself in forms of life and beauty in endless variety. Science itself has forced skeptics to become believers in creation by its discoveries in the realm of vital nature.

4. Summary. There are four facts Science does not pretend to explain the origin of, viz., matter, motion, life, and intellect. Moses accounts for them: Of matter, he says: "God created the heavens and earth;" of life, "God created every living creature;" of intellect, "God created man in His own image;" the word "create" is limited to these very problems; and as for motion, it is accounted for in that "the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters" (the universal fluid).

IV. CONCLUDING NOTE.

The first of all facts is God, "in the beginning God." Only the devout can find Him. Ps. 10:10; Hab. 2:20; 1 Tim. 6:16; Job 11:7; Ro. 11:33. No evidence of His being is of force with the proud minded. Mt. 5:8; Jn. 3:3; 1 Co. 2:14; Ps. 14:1. Creation is a Burning Bush. He who puts his shoes from upon his feet may discover the cause of the "great sight." Ex. 23:6. He may hear the Voice, the only voice that can say "I Am;" all others say merely "I became." Ex. 3:13. There is but One self-existent, Who is before all, above all, in all, through all, and for Whom are all things. Eph. 4:4; 2 Co. 1:17. What a wonder! how great! how glorious! how good! Our mind cannot compass Him, our eye cannot see Him. When any man can see Him we may cry, "God is me!" for I have seen God; and He is no taller than I can reach; no broader than I can embrace; no deeper than I can fathom. Then we will put on our shoes and get back to our herd in the Wilderness. Luther said, "I have often essayed to expound the Ten Commandments, but could never get beyond, 'I am the Lord thy God.'"

THE MARKETS

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Weather very stormy.

Table with 2 columns: Item, Price. Includes NAVELS, CLEVELAND, LOS ANGELES PRODUCE MARKET.

LOS ANGELES PRODUCE MARKET

The staple market appeared to be at a standstill yesterday, although the tendency of egg prices was still upward. The egg market is likely to be affected immediately by any adverse condition, but a large advance is not expected.

The butter market was firm and is likely to continue so. Advances are not expected. It should only be about six weeks or two months until a generally easier feeling in all poultry and dairy products will be felt.

A shipment of pineapples is expected soon. They still continue scarce. The market was well supplied with citrus fruits, as usual. Cherimoyas received a few days ago did not move very quickly at 20 cents a pound. The fact that the fruit is not better known may have something to do with this.

Apples continue plentiful. Receipts were: Eggs, 87 cases; butter, 34,006 pounds; potatoes, 1650 sacks; onions, 1500 sacks; sweet potatoes, 25 sacks; apples, 1240 boxes.

1913 To Be Great Year For YUCAIPA

Note the big things now under way on the "South Bench" connecting the Main and South benches now being done.

Work has commenced under the contract to dig twenty-four miles of ditch for the irrigating mains. This will proceed at the rate of one-half mile per day.

Twenty-four miles of steel pipe, from 6 to 16 inches in diameter is being built and delivered and will be placed as rapidly as the ditch is ready.

Several thousand dollars' worth of pumping machinery is being installed in six big wells.

Distributing reservoirs are being built. High power Edison electric lines are being put through the valley to the pumping plants.

Forty thousand apple trees are being delivered and the ground is being prepared for early planting.

Homes are being built and many who bought and planted one and two years ago, will during the year locate in the valley.

During 1913 hundreds of acres of trees planted three seasons ago, will come into profitable bearing.

Now that is going some! What are you doing? Soon, very soon, this South Bench, the cream of the valley lands, will all be sold. Hurry up! Remember there is no better soil in Southern California. Remember the location, only 64 miles from Santa Ana, adjoining famous Redlands, elevation 3000 feet, soil like a garden, ready to plant the most modern irrigating system in the world, domestic water under pressure, railroad, electric light, fine schools, churches, good roads, stores, newspaper, growers' institute, public library, hotel, all these things for ranchers, think of it!

Go with us on a one day trip to see it all for yourself. Make your money work. Easy payments, low interest.

IN THE JUSTICE COURT JUDGMENT WAS TO DEFENDANT

Justice Cox Decides That Old
Brood-mare Brings No
Damages to Plaintiff

Justice Cox failed to see that Mrs. R. C. Boyd was entitled to judgment against G. W. Ford because she bought an old mare that was sick most of the time after the sale. Mrs. Boyd with Dick Harding as attorney, sued Ford, who had H. C. Head as attorney, for $250 damages, including $85 paid for the mare. The defense alleged that when the sale was made the mare was in good condition. The plaintiff asserted that the animal's age and identity were kept quiet, and that after the purchase it was learned that the animal was a thoroughbred and that her age was twenty-three.

To Upper Court
This morning Justice Cox sent James L. Smith to the juvenile court, where his hearing was set for next Monday morning at 10 o'clock. Smith is 14 years old, and his case could not proceed in the usual way of felony cases. He is charged with passing a worthless check for $108 upon Buck Bros. Smith passed several other bad checks.

AEROPLANE PLANT AMERICA'S LARGEST

Los Angeles Times: What is declared to be America's largest aeroplane company is to be located here today when the factory and offices of the Glenn L. Martin company are moved to their new location at No. 943 South Los Angeles street.

With the 16,000 square feet of floor space in the new factory, the largest hangar in the West at Griffith Aviation Park, an experimental building on Balboa island, and a new hangar and headquarters for the hydro-aeroplanes under construction at East Newport, the company claims to be far ahead of Eastern concerns in the aviation business.

Martin learned to fly at Santa Ana in 1909 with a biplane of his own construction, and was the only successful amateur at the second aviation meet at Dominguez, when he won more prizes and a larger amount of money than Walter Brookings, then one of the Wright star aviators. Last year he surprised the East by winning the honors for efficiency and gaining first place at the Chicago and Boston meets, the two big events of the year.

Martin was the first aviator to fly to Catalina, and the first to fly below sea level, a feat he performed in Imperial county. He has flown farther north than any other aviator, having successfully battled with a gale at Saskatoon, Canada.

The Martin factory employs fourteen men regularly. The school at Balboa and East Newport has several amateurs learning to fly.

ALASKA PROSPERS
DURING LAST 1912

But Growth Retarded by Lack of Railways and Development of Fuel Resources

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Alaska has prospered in many respects during the last year, according to Gov. Walter E. Clarke, in his annual report submitted recently to Secretary of the Interior Fisher. Gov. Clarke deprecates, however, the present lack of railroad construction and of cheap native fuel, declaring that proper development of the Territory's resources demands adequate means of transportation and the opening up of the fuel resources.

He asserts that the residents generally are willing to accept any measure which will cause the fuel resources to be opened to development, so much so that the advantages of a fee system, a leasing plan of government operation have almost ceased to be matters of discussion.

Little Placer Mining
A moderate decline in the white population during the last two years he attributes to diminishing activity in placer mining in the interior valleys and inadequate land laws, to the remarkable public calamities about Alaska which have kept capital without its borders, and to the failure of Congress to lend necessary means of encouragement to the development of a virgin region. As to commerce between Alaska and the United States and with foreign countries it was the largest last year in the history of the Territory, totaling almost $63,000,000. Of this amount $18,800,000 was of merchandise from the United States, $1,000,000 about the previous record in 1910, Alaska shipped to the States $13,200,000 worth of canned salmon and $1,100,000 worth of other fish; $5,000,000 worth of copper ore; $17,200,000 worth of gold and other products to a total value of more than $38,000,000.

Industries Prosperous
Except for gold these are all record figures, the gold exports to the United States to two years ago having exceeded $18,000,000. Never before was there such a great increase in the salmon industry, a total of eighty-seven canneries being in operation against sixty-four the year before. There were 14,800 persons engaged in the work, 19 per cent more than in 1911. Altogether there were 18,000 persons in the fishing industry, of whom 7600 were white, the others Indians, Chinese, Japanese, Filipinos, Mexicans and others. More than 500 whales were killed during the season. Gov. Clarke fears no depletion of the fish provided the present protective laws are observed. He recommends "strict provisions to prevent aliens from fishing in Alaskan waters, the present statute being notoriously lacking."

Delhi Booze-Seller Pleads Guilty, Pays $100 and Has Seven Months Over Him

Feliciano Hernandez, a fleshy Mexican who lives at Delhi, will have to live the straight life for a time else stand an excellent chance of going to jail for seven months. Yesterday before Judge West he pleaded guilty to selling liquor at Delhi in violation of the Wyllie local option law. On orders from Judge West Hernandez paid $100 fine, and a sentence of seven months in the county jail was suspended during good behavior. Judge West explicitly stated what good behavior would constitute. Hernandez must not sell any liquor. He must not drink liquor. He must not gamble. In short, he must refrain from law-breaking.

Want Boundary Changed
The board of Supervisors has received a petition, approved by County Superintendent of Schools Mitchell, asking that Sunset Beach be taken from the Springdale school district and placed in the Huntington Beach district. The petition states that pupils living at Sunset Beach have an electric line connecting with Huntington Beach by which the children can go to school in all kinds of weather. The Springdale school is two miles inland, and part of the year it cannot be reached from Sunset Beach.

Divorce Decree
An interlocutory decree of divorce was given yesterday to Anna B. Cillwell against Richard W. Stilwell. Mrs. Stilwell was given yesterday to Anna B. Cillwell in Pennsylvania. B. E. Tarver represented the plaintiff.

Sent to Asylum
Yesterday afternoon B. F. Justice of Westminster was committed to the insane asylum at Patton. The evidence showed that Justice imagined that he has great sums of money and that someone has stolen his check-book, and that he was liable to attempt to kill someone.

Adoption Necessary
It took an adoption proceedings yesterday to get matter into shape so that Juanita Albrittas, aged 16, of Delhi, could marry Pio Garcia, 21, of Barstow. Garcia came here the day previous to marry Juanita, but he found legal difficulties in the way. Juanita is an orphan. Consent to marry, therefore, could not be secured from a parent. In that case the law says consent may be given by a guardian. Juanita had lived for years with Mrs. Antonia Cayous. So yesterday Mrs. Cayous applied for guardianship upon Juanita, Attorneys Keech & Davis appearing for her. With the decree, she signed consent to the marriage, and Justice Cox tied the knot. Garcia is employed in the Santa Fe freight house at Barstow.

ORANGE, Jan. 4.—The City Trustees have received a letter from the State Board of Health relative to complaints against the sewer farm. A list of questions is sent to be answered and returned to the state board.

City Marshal Warner has received a telegram from the sheriff of Clinton county, Mo., stating that an officer will arrive here tomorrow or Monday to get E. C. Collins, wanted in Missouri on a charge of seduction.

City officials are discussing a plan for the establishment of a fire alarm system.

Voice From the Past
When Weber and Fields got together in January, after an eight-year separation, they hired as many of the survivors of their old company as they could find.

There was one chorus girl, however, who seemed to Joe Weber's critical eyes too elderly a veteran even for the collection which she adorned. He turned to William Raymond Sill, Fields' man of affairs, to whom he had intrusted the job of rounding up the old-timers.

"I don't seem to remember that woman," he said. "Did she belong to our original company?"

"No," said Sill, "she didn't. A newspaperman asked me to give her a chance."

"Who was that newspaperman," asked Weber, "Horace Greeley?"

Saturday Evening Post.

Photographing a Tornado
We frequently hear of the daring of photographers who expose themselves to real dangers in order to obtain unique and interesting photographs. Here is an example of such daring. Last May a tornado occurred in Oklahoma which devastated a section of country near Ponca City, killing a number of people and destroying much property. Notice of the approach of the tornado had been telephoned ahead, which gave an enterprising photographer the chance to prepare to record the phenomenon with his camera. He took the photograph from a house which lay directly in line with the approach of the tornado. The picture clearly shows the funnel-shaped cloud formation. Immediately on snapping the shutter the photographer took refuge in a cave, and as the tornado came on it completely demolished the house from which the picture had been taken.—Scientific American.
